SUMMARY

I'm a Client Support & Discord Moderator with hands-on experience in proprietary trading environments, specializing in trader support, account investigation, and operational support.

My role combines client-facing support with backend account investigation. I manage trader enquiries across Discord and support ticketing channels, assist with account-related concerns, and provide accurate, professional, and solution-focused support.

I have hands-on experience using Axcera and MT5 Manager to investigate and resolve a wide range of trader account and trading-related concerns. I analyze account information, trading activity, rule-related issues, and relevant account history to understand the underlying situation, determine what happened, and provide clear explanations and appropriate resolutions to traders.

My operational experience includes account verification, payout-related support, trading-rule guidance, platform assistance, troubleshooting, and account-related case resolution across MT5, cTrader, and TradeLocker. I also work with Risk, Compliance, and Operations teams when cases require further review or escalation.

As an active CFD and futures trader, I have practical knowledge of trading environments and understand the challenges traders face. This allows me to communicate with traders from an informed perspective and provide support that goes beyond standard scripted responses.

I'm particularly interested in opportunities within prop firms and forex brokers across Client Support, Trading Operations, Account Operations, and risk-related support functions.
